CIVIC OFFICES FILLED BY ACCLAMATION

Red Cross to Launch National Appeal Feb. 28

Will Ask $10 Million in Voluntary Contributions.

The Canadian Red Cross will make a national appeal for $10,000,000 in voluntary contributions throughout Canada starting on February 28th.

In previous appeals the people of Canada have more than supported the cause and the generous response of the Canadian people in the last appeal showed their openheartedness and understanding of the Red Cross work.

The Red Cross is an international organization and under the Conventions of Geneva, is required to obtain its support by voluntary subscriptions to preserve its rights, privileges and immunities guaranteed under International Law.

The national appeal in March was planned with the fullest co-operation of the Dominion Government to avoid disruption of plans of the National War Finance Committee. And too, the American Red Cross is making its appeal during the same month, making it a continent-wide campaign.

The largest work facing the Red Cross during the current year is supplying food parcels for Canadian, British and empire prisoners of war in Europe and the Far East. The Society now has five pecking plants in Canada, with a weekly production of 100,000 parcels. Of this amount the Canadian Red Cross donates 30,000 weekly for prisoners in Europe, the remainder being paid for by the British and Australian Red Cross Societies. Provisions have also been made for food, drugs and other supplies for Canadian prisoners in the Far East. These two objectives alone will require $5,500,000 during 1944.

The work of the Canadian Red Cross has never been greater, and the need has never been greater. This year, it is hoped, will be victory year, but the work of the Red Cross does not end with the cessation of hostilities . . . it continues wherever there is human suffering.

Civilians to be Re-Instated in Former Employment

The Minister of Labour, Hon. Humphrey Mitchell, announces that a recent Order in Council amends National Selective Service Regulations, to provide for the reinstatement in former employment of all civilians required by Selective Service to change their occupations for more important war jobs.

Previously the Regulations had provided for reinstatement in former employment, after a single change to alternative work. Now, however, the Regulations will provide for reinstatement of a man in his regular employment, regardless of how many changes of employer he may have been required to make by Selective Service after leaving his first regular employer.

Inquest Adjourned Till This Friday at 7 p.m.

The inquest enquiring into the death of Veronica Zahorejko which commenced Friday, Feb. 28, and was adjourned after hearing the doctor's evidence till Feb. 4, was further adjourned from the latter date to Friday, Feb. 11, at 7 p.m. Adjournment was caused when exhibits sent to Edmonton had not been reported upon by the provincial analyst.

Judging from the large crowd that endeavored to get into the council chamber last Friday evening to hear evidence it would appear that the latter place is going to prove much too small to hold the spectators.

Mayor Fred Antrobus

No Election for Second Successive Year; Mayor Antrobus Starts Third Term in Mayoralty Office

No civic election will be necessary here for the second successive year. The four vacancies in the council were filled by acclamation when no one opposed Mayor Antrobus who sought re-election. Councillors Dutil and Jenkins were re-elected to office, accompanied by James Lowe who succeeds to the position left vacant by the resignation of councillor Ford.

The forthcoming term will be the third for Mayor Antrobus in his present office as mayor. Councillor Jenkins will also be starting his third having succeeded Councillor Angelo Gentile, who resigned from office after serving only part of his term. Councillor Dutil will be starting his second term.

While this is Mr. Lowe's first venture into municipal politics, he is nevertheless well known. Mr. Lowe has, for many years, been local band master and has taken an active interest among the youth in town in order that he might develop a good band from among them.

Dave Holly was sent back to office in the school board and will commence his second term. The newcomer to the Board is Mrs. Ann Vasek, of West Coleman. Mrs. Vasek is the first woman to sit on the school board since the late Mrs. Andrew McLeod was a member in the early twenties.

Men Of The Hour

HISTORY HAS SHOWN the importance of leadership on the course of world events. In the past, turning points in the affairs of nations have, as a rule, been linked with the name of some great personality, and it is realized that the destinies of many nations today are closely bound up with the men who are their leaders during these critical times. It is generally agreed that it was the magnificent leadership of Prime Minister Winston Churchill which brought Britain and the Empire through what he himself said might be "its darkest hour." President Roosevelt, Premier Stalin and Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek are others who guided their countries through these difficult times with great courage and wisdom. On the other hand, is seen in the Axis countries today, the unhappy fate of nations who are the victims of evil and unscrupulous leaders.

Leadership For United Nations

Qualities of leadership involve many things. Among them are the ability to inspire others with loyalty and to command their confidence and respect. It is apparent that the United Nations have been fortunate in having many fine leaders both in public life and in the armed forces, and they have contributed greatly towards the success of the Allied effort. At the present time much interest is focused on the invasion of the continent of Europe and on the men who were chosen to direct this great operation. They are: General Dwight Eisenhower, the Supreme Allied Commander; Air Chief Marshal Sir Arthur Tedder, who is Deputy Supreme Commander; and the three British operational chiefs, Admiral Ramsay, General Montgomery and Air Marshal Leigh-Mallory.

Three Reasons For Selection

It is said that there were three reasons for the choice of these men as leaders of this difficult and critical undertaking. The first was that they are men who have already been tried and tested in modern warfare; the second, that they have all worked and fought together and recognize complete integration of the three arms as the first essential of success; and the third, that all have built up a system of close personal co-operation with their forces from the high ranking officers down to the lowest rank. It is believed by many that the storming of the fortress of Europe will bring victory over Germany very close, and in the choice of leaders for this venture the best possible conditions for success have been created.

Tribute To The Man Who Directed
Britain's War Effort

Winston Churchill is an old Tory. He is an old Liberal. He is a rank imperialist. He is a fervent democrat. But mainly he is one of those men who cannot walk into the House of Commons, or any house or place, without "creating something of an electric shock." He does not do this because he is Prime Minister. He is Prime Minister because he can do it.

H is Prime Minister because he has made and projected an image of what the British people wish to be in this war: there he stands and there they stand, in courage so sure that it need never plume itself, as full as strong as the British eagle with its wings; it springs; in cheerfulness that passes smiling into the dark valley; in honesty of purpose; in loyalty to even the most misunderstanding of friends.—New York Times.

Only Thing They Know

Changing Ideas Of Young Nazi Group Will Not Be Easy

Two German prisoners of war committed suicide in an internment camp in Kansas and the circumstances throw a revealing light on the twisted and malicious Nazi mentality.

One of the men, a private, slashed his wrists while in protective custody at his own request. The other, a captain apparently had been "sentenced" by a prisoners' kangaroo court for "making remarks against Hitler." His fellow prisoners took him from his own quarters, put him in a room provided with a length of rope, and the German obligingly hanged himself.

These incidents are significant as showing that the fanatical zeal of the young Nazis is carried with them even into captivity on another continent. The younger German soldiers never have known anything but Nazi propaganda. They have grown up under Hitler's diabolical influence, and are worthy disciples of that monster of evil. They believe implicitly in a German victory, in the German right to dominate the world by force, in all the hideous doctrine of a "superior" Germanic race.

Those who hold that, once the German armies are beaten, "good" Germans will take over the situation and banish Hitler and all his works ignore the potentialities of trouble in this formidable Young Nazi group, many of whom are bound to survive defeat, bitter but not convinced. To change them over to a decent outlook on life, to rid them of hate and prejudice and their superiority complex, is a task that will test the ingenuity of the peace-makers, but they must be made harmless if Germany itself is to be tamed.—Ottawa Journal.

Price Control And Rationing Information

Q—When I went to buy some strawberry jam my grocer told me he didn't have any. Why is this when jam is rationed and I have coupons?

A—The mere fact that you have coupons does not mean that you will always be able to secure a supply of any rationed item. The ration program is designed to make as equitable a distribution as possible of goods in short supply. It cannot create new supplies.

Q—I purchased a jar of jam this week which had no weight marked on the label. Is it compulsory for the weight to be marked on the label?

A—By Government order the weight must be moulded in the glass of the jar... so it is not necessary to print the weight on the label also, the weight is marked in fluid ounces, examine the jar and if the weight is not shown let us hear from you again.

Q—What is the price of the Blue Book, which is used for keeping record of prices paid for commodities?

A—There is no charge for the Blue Book; we are sending you a copy in today's mail.

Q—Is there any price ceiling on hair dressers' service?

A—Most distinctly. Unless specific authorization has been received to increase such prices, a hair dresser cannot charge more for his or her services than was charged during the basic period in 1941.

Q—I am of the opinion that I paid too much for a used car at an auction sale recently. How can I find out if that was the case?

A—All sales of used passenger cars are now governed by ceilings, whether sold by dealers or individuals. Full information concerning ceiling regulations may be obtained at any office of the Board.

Please send your questions or your request for the pamphlet "Consumers' News" or the Blue Book (the book in which you keep track of your ceiling prices) mentioning the name of this paper to: Wartime Prices and Trade Board, Regina, Saskatchewan.

Plum Purée

British Scientist Discovers How To Make Jam From Powder
British housewives have been told that they may soon be making jam from powder, at all times of the year.

A scientist of a research station in Somerset has announced that he has discovered a powder made from plum purée, which keeps indefinitely. Three ounces of the powder, with sugar added, after a few minutes of boiling, becomes two pounds of jam. Only plum powder has been used so far, but the scientist believes the process is possible with apple and blackberry and probably any other fruit.

Advantages of the new invention in wartime England are: Saving of storage space; saving of sugar, since the jam would be made for quick consumption; jam can be made whenever sugar supplies are available.

The League cited the warning by Brigadier J. C. Meakin, R.C.A.M.C., at the Ottawa conference, that a dull, boring Sunday had a tendency to drive young people into unwholesome activities.

LEAGUE OF CANADA

TOPICS OF VITAL INTEREST

V.D. AND COMMUNITY CONDITIONS

A critical examination of community conditions which foster delinquency and the spread of venereal disease was urged as a part of ordinary citizens could play in the campaign to rid Canada of syphilis and gonorrhea.

"Delinquency and disease are but symptoms of community neglect," the Health League of Canada said. "Not only should unsavory community conditions be attacked, but wholesome activities should be offered in their place," the League said.

At the epochal first national venereal disease control conference in Ottawa, it was emphasized that at best wholesome recreation had to compete with unwholesome pastimes for the attention of young people.

The war of venereal disease must begin in the home," the Health League declared.

"There must be a strengthening of family life and greater acceptance of responsibility by parents. Parents must do more than teach youth by precept and example. They must give children much more of their time than has been the practice of many homes. Moreover, there must be an acceptance of communal responsibility.

"The community as a whole must give much more attention than in the past to the needs and rights of young people for wholesome conditions, and for recreation "in the right place and at the right time."

The League cited the warning by Brigadier J. C. Meakin, R.C.A.M.C., at the Ottawa conference, that a dull, boring Sunday had a tendency to drive young people into unwholesome activities.

Royal Astronomer

He Knew What Would Happen If The Job Was Better Paid

James Bradley, who discovered the aberration of light and the "nodding" of the earth's axis, was appointed Astronomer Royal in 1742, in succession of the famous Halley.

One day Queen Wilhelmina visited the observatory at Greenwich where Bradley conducted his work. She graciously chatted with the astronomer for an hour, and noticing the frayed condition of his clothing, she tactfully inquired as to the adequacy of his income.

Bradley informed her of the size of the honorarium paid to the Astronomer Royal—about five hundred dollars a year.

"But surely," the Queen exclaimed, "that is scarcely sufficient. I shall do my best immediately to see that the royal astronomer is better rewarded."

"Your Majesty," Bradley replied, "I beg you not to do this."

"But why?" the Queen asked in perplexity.

"Because, your Majesty, if you should make the position of royal astronomer at Greenwich profitable, I am afraid no scientist will ever get the position."—Strand, London.

Second Language

Says English Will Be Taught In Most Countries

Without being "reduced to 850 words for the mentally weak," English will become the second language in most countries, Rev. Dr. James Endicott told the English Speaking Union at Toronto.

Endicott, who taught English in China for nine years, said English was becoming the second language of educated Chinese up to the outbreak of war.

He did not agree with Prime Minister Winston Churchill in the latter's advocacy of "basic English."

"Let the basic English alone," he advised, let the language grow naturally. In 25 years, in virtually every country, English will become the second language taught. The key to this situation is not to limit the words, but to improve the technique of teaching English," he averred.

SOVIET RUSSIA MAKES FIRST MOVE IN AN ENDEAVOR TO NEGOTIATE NEW POLISH TREATY

LONDON.—Soviet Russia made clear that the first move of her new special foreign office in the Ukraine would be to make a treaty with a "new" Poland and suggested that the Polish government in London might be ignored entirely.

The Moscow radio declared that with liberation of the Polish people from the "Poland yoke," a new democratic Poland was being and all conditions for friendly co-operation of the Ukrainian and Polish peoples will be created.

Establishment of a separate foreign office in the Ukrainian Soviet republic, the announcement said, would create stimulus for "friendly rapprochement of these states and may require conclusion of special agreements for strengthening these friendly connections between them."

However Moscow went on: "The emigre Polish government not infrequently displays its imperialist, pro-Fascist tendencies in its policies, and it is obvious that such tendencies preclude even the possibility of friendly agreement."

The Soviet policy was given in the form of a Tass news agency report, of a speech by the Ukrainian Deputy Bogomolov, during the supreme Soviet's discussion of creating individual foreign offices for each Soviet republic.

Earlier, Russia lashed bitterly at Bulgaria—charging her with turning her ports and "whole territory" over to German use against Russia in one of three developments in Moscow's attitude in war and peace toward her western neighbors.

The Soviets also officially denied reports they had presented an ultimatum to Finland to quit the war or are negotiating with Finland for peace.

However, the Russian bombing of Helsinki served explosive warning to the Finns that a year-long lull has ended and that mighty Russian forces freed by the liberation of Leningrad are ready to deal at last with Hitler's little northern ally unless she quits the war now.

In the third move, Moscow acted swiftly to implement her new federal system of 16 separate republics, indicating an intention to establish Kremlin-sponsored governments in pre-war Polish and other territory as fast as the Red army moves in.

As for Bulgaria—traditionally looking upon Russia as a friend and still maintaining diplomatic ties with her—the Moscow radio asserted "the whole territory of Bulgaria has been obligingly placed by the Bulgarian ruling clique at the disposal of Hitlerite troops in the war against the Soviet Union" and the Black sea ports of Burgas, Varna and Ruse (Russo) had been converted into Nazi naval bases.

JAPANESE THREAT

Reported Drive To Occupy Railways And Cut China In Half

CHUNGKING.—The possibility that the Japanese are organizing a drive to occupy the whole route of the railways linking Peiping, Tientsin and Canton, thus splitting China from north to south, was suggested by a spokesman for the Chinese army.

Success of such an operation, it was said, would provide the Japanese with an overland route that would compensate in some part for shipping losses off the China coast and keep open supply lines despite potential bombing of enemy bases east of the railways.

Canada Is Not In Position To Discontinue Coffee Rationing

VANCOUVER.—There is no likelihood Canada will follow the United States in discontinuing coffee rationing, Howard I. Ross, administrator for consumer rationing, said in an interview.

"The United States, when it removed coffee rationing, took a gamble," Mr. Ross said. "It is not impossible that shipping and fluctuations in world supply factors might force resumption of the coffee ration in that country."

MEMBER OF BOARD

President Of Manitoba Pool Elevators One Of CBC Governors

OTTAWA.—War Services Minister LaFleche announced in the commons that William J. Parker of Winnipeg, president of the Manitoba pool elevators, has been elected a member of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation's board of governors.

Gen. LaFleche said Mr. Parker is a practical farmer, a graduate of Manitoba Agricultural College, a governor of the University of Manitoba, a veteran of the Royal Flying Corps in the First Great War, and now is vice-president of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture.

Mr. Parker, who is 44, was born at Sanford, Man., and was elected president of the Manitoba pool elevators in December, 1940. He is also vice-president of the Canadian Cooperative Wheat Producers, Ltd., and a member of the Dominion food advisory council.

He was chairman of the Manitoba crop insurance committee organized by the government of John Bracken before Mr. Bracken became leader of the Progressive-Conservative party.

CHINESE COMMISSION

CHUNGKING.—The impending formation of a war crimes commission in China was announced by vice-minister of foreign affairs K. C. Wu, who hinted that the body might include various Allied commanders-in-chief.

BUFFALO, N.Y.—Reporting the United States government's plan to import 40,000,000 bushels of wheat from Canada by rail this year, representatives of federal agencies said it is more practical to tap Canada's exportable surplus than those of Argentina and Australia.

"No one knows how much grain will be moved down the lakes," Mark Upson, director of the war food administration's transportation division, told a meeting of the lower lakes grain committee. "The bottleneck in 1944 lies in the amount of grain Canada can move to the lake heads."

He said 2,700 freight cars of U.S. railroads have been sent to Canada to bring in wheat, mainly through the Duluth gateway, and added: "We are trying to get every bushel of wheat we can from Canada."

Alexander T. Wood, of Cleveland, director of the office of defence transportation's Great Lakes division, commented that the lake transportation situation "should be more comfortable next season."

William McArthur, of Washington, head of the Commodity Credit Corporation, grain division, said that although heavy inroads are being made into the United States' stock of wheat, the country will manage to avoid rationing flour and bread.

"With careful planning, we will have ample supplies," he added.

Irrigation Would Help To Develop Western Farms

OTTAWA.—John R. MacNicol (P.C., Toronto Davenport) said in the House of Commons that eastern Canada must rally to support of the west in assisting the development of irrigation and power projects to make possible 30,000 additional prairie farm homes.

Projects he proposed for prairie betterment might cost $100,000,000, he said, but the money would be well spent for the benefit of Canada as a whole as well as of the west.

Last summer Mr. MacNicol travelled some 8,000 miles in the west examining possible irrigation projects, river flow and power sites. "I am convinced the west has not had a square deal, and as an eastern member it is my duty to raise my voice in an attempt to see that it does get a square deal," he said. He spoke in continued debate on the throne speech.

Mr. MacNicol said the failure of prairie farmers due to drought had meant the ruination of much business in Canada. Eastern Canadians especially had not been fair to that country.

Southern Alberta rivers should be harnessed. Under treaty regulations with the United States, into whose territory the rivers flow, it was implied that if one country did not attempt to conserve the waters the other could have them. Water was allowed to run away on the Canadian side, and unless action were taken it would be lost. The United States had built reservoirs south of the border.

South of the South Saskatchewan river, 500,000 acres instead of 200,000, could be irrigated if water were available. There should be irrigation up to Medicine Hat and an irrigation canal should be completed to that point.

West of Saskatoon, north of Cabri, Sask., and on to Tramping Lake, 2,000,000 acres could be put under irrigation. If 3,000,000 acres in the west were irrigated it would mean 30,000 farmers producing with an average of 100 acres to a farm. There could be industries in the west if power were available. There could be a 125,000-horsepower project at Fort a la Corne, Sask.; 188,000 horsepower at Riverhurst; and about 75,000 near Saskatchewan Landing.

CANADA'S FIRST ANTI-AIRCRAFT CRUISER FIGHTS OFF NAZI BOMBERS OVER TWO HOURS

A prize of $25, offered to the first man in H.M.C.S. Prince Robert to spot an enemy plane, was won by Able Seaman Robert Broadhead, of Edmonton, Alta., a lookout. Broadhead is shown above being congratulated by Capt. A. M. Hope, R.C.N., commanding officer of Prince Robert, who put up the prize, just as the ship sailed from Canada to link up with units of the Royal Navy.

Anti-aircraft gunners aboard the Prince Robert, let loose a barrage when some 32 enemy planes, most of them carrying glider bombs, attacked the large convoy they were escorting. The planes fled after a battle that lasted exactly two hours and all the ships reached port safely, although two were damaged.

Canada's first anti-aircraft cruiser, H.M.C.S. Prince Robert, pictured above, recently fought off German bombers for more than two hours to protect a convoy bound for the United Kingdom. The deadly barrage put up by her guns played a large part in bringing the convoy safely through.

FEDERATION OF AGRICULTURE SAYS THERE SHOULD BE A FIXED PRICE FOR COARSE GRAINS

OTTAWA.—The Canadian Federation of Agriculture said in a brief today before they begin seeding, presented to the federal cabinet that otherwise there would be the danger of too great a switch from coarse to fine grains back into wheat production, at a time when coarse grains were needed to maintain livestock production at present ceiling prices without disturbing advance equalization payments now in effect.

The federation said it was important that farmers be assured of

Prime Minister Mackenzie King and eight other cabinet members heard the brief and promised consideration of it.

In the submission presented to cabinet members, read by H. H. Hamman of Ottawa, president, the federation also recommended:

Special provision for rural housing in any housing plan adopted; short-term intermediate credit should be made available to extend the necessary credit for equipment of farm homes.

The number of agricultural agents to advise farmers in proper farming methods should be increased by the provinces with federal encouragement by grants in aid.

Rural health, educational and electrical services should be equal to those of the cities, and federal security plans should be broad enough to make farm life more attractive, with more economic security.

Canada should seek a satisfactory international wheat agreement, designed to give stability to international trading.

WHEAT PAYMENTS

Participation Certificates On 1940 And 1941 Wheat Crops To Be Met

OTTAWA.—Payments on farmers' participation certificates on the 1940 wheat crop will start in March. Trade Minister MacKinnon said in the commons. Payments on certificates for the 1941 and 1942 crops will start immediately after 1940 payments are completed, he added, but he said he could not say when payments would be made on the 1943 crop.

Answering a question from John Diefenbaker (P.C.-Lake Centre), the minister said payments will be made on all certificates and that farmers who have lost their certificates will not suffer. The wheat board had duplicates of all certificates. However, farmers who had lost certificates might have to wait a little longer for their money.

Mr. MacKinnon said the wheat board has a "tremendous accounting problem" due to the recent taking over of all wheat stocks, in addition to its regular work.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

SPORTS ASSOC. PROVES BOON TO TOWN

Few will deny the fact that Coleman Community Sports Association has not proven a boon to the town this winter. With the opening of the arena and the open air skating rink the town seemed to become alive. Youngsters and their elders are to be seen nightly, skates on shoulders, heading for the arena where they have several hours of healthful exercise and fun. More men than in many years are now to be seen with curling brooms in hand making for the curling arena. Had it not been for the Association it is probable that the arena would not have opened; young people would have had to roam the town, seeking their own recreation and with no one to supervise their activities. The fee is small, the benefits large.

FOOD INDUSTRY'S STAMP DRIVE

Coleman's grocery stores, restaurants, butchers and bakery are co-operating in the Food Industry's war savings stamp drive. Records prove that local citizens are war stamp conscious and know full well the value of buying as many war stamps as they can.

They are, however, being urged to convert their stamps into certificates as soon as they have accumulated $4 worth. It is only when the stamps have been converted into a certificate that income is derived from them. Another point that it is well to remember is that war savings certificates, if kept to maturity, carry a better rate of interest than do Victory Bonds. Support the Food Industry's drive, take part of your change in war stamps.

Pee Wee Hockey Notes

Coleman Pee Wee hockey league opened its schedule on Sunday, Feb. 6, with Elks, Lions, Pattinson's, Legion teams participating. The hockey displayed was quite good considering the condition of the ice. Future games will certainly provide good entertainment for Pee Wee hockey fans.

Scores: Pattinson's 1, Elks 1;

In an exhibition game Coleman Midgets, local representatives in the play-offs, trounced Crows Nest 17-5. This team, coached by Mike Hudz, promises to be one of the strongest entries ever to represent Coleman in the Midget division. Regularly scheduled games will commence each Sunday at 2 p.m. and all public support will be appreciated.

Curling Notes

The first section of play in league competitions has been completed and finds the Balloch rink out in front with four wins in five starts. A number of rinks are bunched right behind with three wins and two losses.

The first six leading rinks will now be placed in A section and the lower half in B section.

At the present time the president vs. vice president competition is being played. With four games played the vice-president is slightly in the lead. The losers will be hosts to the winners at a banquet to wind up the curling season at the Grand Union hotel next month, at which time trophies and prizes will be awarded the winning rinks.

Humor

Wife (suspiciously): "I hope I didn't see you smile at that creature in the car we just passed."

Husband: "I hope you didn't my dear."

"Is she refined?"

"I should say so" She wasn't even read coarse print!"

She: "Can you drive with one arm?"

He: "Sure."

She: "Okay, have an apple."

Barber: "Will you have something on your face, sir, after I finish shaving you?"

Customer: "I doubt it!"

It's That Same Professor

The professor walked into the village barber shop, sat down in the operating chair, and asked for a haircut.

"Certainly, sir," said the barber. "Would you mind taking off your hat?"

The professor hurriedly complied. "I'm sorry," he apologized, "but I didn't know that ladies were present."—Tit-Bits.

$50 Bond Being Raffled

In an effort to further boost the sale of war savings stamps in Coleman, L. S. Richards of the Grand Union hotel, is sponsoring a raffle, the prize being a $50 bond.

Numbers one to fifty have been placed on a card and each person wishing to try their luck at a dollar a chance writes their name alongside what they hope is the winning number.

The draw will be made at some public place. The fifty dollars will first purchase war stamps, which in turn will be taken to the bank to purchase the bond.

Silver Lining

A house agent was showing a possible tenant over a house. He used all his arts to praise the place, while trying to ignore the fact that the water was trickling down the inner walls.

"It's a bit damp, isn't it?" said the other doubtfully.

"Damp?" was the quick reply.

"Of course it's damp! But just think what an advantage that would be in case of fire!"—An-

An inebriated man was trying to unlock the door of his house without success when a passing policeman asked if he could handle the key for him.

"Nope," the drunken man said. "I can hold the key. You hold the house."

A CHARTERED bank is an institution where the details of your bank account are kept secret.

It is called "chartered" because its permission to do business and the conditions and restrictions under which it may do business, are contained in a charter granted and kept up-to-date by parliament, the finest democratic free institution of government that man has yet devised. This charter is an Act of Parliament laying down all of the conditions which safeguard your money.

Ten competing chartered banks are the very opposite of a State Monopoly such as would come about if all the banks were rolled into one by nationalization. Under State Monopoly, if you failed to get accommodation at the one bank, you could not go to any one of nine others to seek it. You can today.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

FEBRUARY 13

JESUS ON THE MOUNTAIN AND IN THE VALLEY

Golden text: I believe; help thou mine unbelief. Mark 9:24.
Lesson: Mark 9:2-29.
Devotional Reading: II Peter 1:12-21.

Explanations and Comments

On the Mountain, Mark 9:1-8. About a week after Peter's avowal at Caesarea Philippi that Jesus is the Christ and Jesus' announcement of his coming crucifixion (a statement so terrible and incomprehensible it must have confused the thoughts of all), Jesus took the three privileged disciples and brought them up into a high mountain apart by themselves. "The date is, in fact, fingerpost pointing back to the conversation on the passion and saying, 'If you desire to understand what follows, remember what went before.'"

While Jesus was praying upon the mountain he was transfigured before them. And there appeared unto them Elijah with Moses; and they were talking with Jesus. "They were seeing him in proper perspective. He had told them that he was the Messiah, now they had adjusted their minds to the fact. Jesus was greater than the founders and heroes of their religion; Moses and Elijah came to talk with him—to pay him homage."

From a cloud there came a voice: "This is my beloved Son; hear ye him." "In other words, 'Cease your rebelling and accept his interpretation of his task and destiny.'"

On the Way down from the Mountain, Mark 9:9-13. In the Valley, Mark 9:14-27. "It was a changed atmosphere that met Jesus in the valley below, where faith and disappointment reigned. The ten disciples were standing in great perplexity near an afflicted boy and his father. Scribes were questioning them, and we are probably justified in thinking that they were taunting the disciples for their failure to cure the boy."

Jesus bade them bring the boy to him, and while he lay screaming at his feet asked the father how long the boy's affliction had lasted. "From a child," the father answered, and told how the boy had fallen into fire and into water; "but if thou canst do anything, have compassion on us, and help us," he cried.

"If thou canst!" the "if" is in yourself; you must do your part. It was not a question of Jesus' power, but of the man's faith, for all things are possible to him that believeth. The father met the challenge: "I believe; help thou mine unbelief," he cried.

The excited crowd about them was growing larger, and Jesus turned quickly to the boy. Honoring the people's belief that the disease was caused by an evil spirit, Jesus ordered it to leave the boy and enter into him no more. After a wild shriek, the boy lay before them as one dead. And indeed, the crowd cried out that he was dead. But Jesus took him by the hand and raised him up.

Bishop Of Arctic Says Eskimos Could Handle Mechanical Jobs

Eskimos will be able to render "vital service to post-war development of Canadian civil aviation" if they are trained to handle mechanical jobs. Rt. Rev. A. L. Fleming, Bishop of the Arctic, told a service club in Montreal.

"Eskimos are noted for their mechanical ability," he said, "and I am certain that, if they were trained, they could become radio engineers, mechanics and drivers at the far north air fields after the war."

Trans-Atlantic Flier

Grant MacDonald, noted Canadian artist whose sketches of members of Canada's armed forces and Canadian transportation workers have won acclaim throughout the Dominion, chose Captain J. M. Barclay, Trans-Canada Airlines pilot, as the subject of this drawing. Captain Barclay flies one of the low Lancasters in the Trans-Atlantic service operated by T.C.A. for the Canadian Government, carrying mail to and from the members of Canada's overseas forces. He established a trans-Atlantic record when he and the members of his crew made a non-stop flight from Montreal to Great Britain in 11 hours and 56 minutes with Hon. C. D. Howe, Minister of Munitions and Supply, and H. J. Symington, K.C., president of T.C.A., as passengers. This was 30 minutes faster than the previous record which had been set by one of Captain Barclay's fellow pilots, Captain R. F. George.

Aids Marksmanship

Training Device Has Range Of Less Than One Inch

A new training device to improve the marksmanship of Canadian soldiers is in use today at Army Base Training Centres.

Known as the Swift Training Rifle, it looks like a rifle, even acts like one, but has no barrel, no magazine, and fires no bullets. And, it has a range of less than one inch.

Public relations office, Military District 10, headquarters at Winnipeg, said that training officers are enthusiastic about the new "weapon".

The rifle by means of an ingenious arrangement of springs and sharp pointed pins, has done away with most guess work in early rifle instruction.

Built of wood, the Swift has the heft and feel of a genuine rifle. Pressure on the trigger releases a small, two-pronged rig, which darts out of the "muzzle", perforating a fine, scale-model paper target fixed less than an inch from the nose of the rifle.

This perforation tells the tale. The upper prong punches a hole where the bullet would normally hit, while the lower prong, striking at exactly the same time, shows whether the weapon is being canted to left or right, whether elevation and trigger pressure are right or wrong.

Stimulate Research

United States To Encourage Experimentation With Aluminum

The War Production Board gave United States industry a green light on experimentation with aluminum in post-war models of civilian goods. The decision is expected to stimulate research looking to development of lightweight automobiles, refrigerators and other durable goods items.

The board said it would approve requests for small quantities of aluminum provided the experiments "can be carried out without diverting manpower, technical skills or facilities from activities connected with the war effort."

Woman Toured London Business Houses For Over Fifty Years

For more than 50 years Miss Elizabeth Belleville toured London business houses giving them the correct time. She used a watch, 100 years old, which gave the exact time to within a tenth of a second. Three times a week it went to Greenwich for a certificate of accuracy. Miss Belleville, who has just died at Wallington, aged 89, left the watch to the Worshipful Company of Clockmakers.

GROWN UNDER ICE

At Polar stations in the Soviet Arctic cucumbers and salad greens are being grown underneath the ice, says the Toronto Star. The beds are heated electrically and lighted by 300-candle-power bulbs from current produced by windmills erected above the ice. The Arctic blizzards have thus been brought into service for the expansion of the habitable area for mankind.

OUR COMPLETE
SHORT STORY—

"DRY ROT"

— By —
MABEL MOORE
McClure Newspaper Syndicate

The little widow Mason was going to call on the Ryersons. Walking briskly up the long hill toward the most pretentious house in town, she softly whistled a gay little tune. Perhaps to keep up her courage. For she had been snubbed—oh, definitely snubbed—by the Ryersons.

She looked back, lovingly, at her own cottage—pink rose trellis in front, hollyhocks showing high at the back—and remembered how pleasant Jeff Ryerson had been, showing it to her the first time. "It was our own home," he had said. "So we know how convenient it is."

Mrs. Ryerson was cordial too. "I'm sure you'll be happy here, my dear, for we have loved it so."

During the transaction of business, seeing her often, they spoke of playing cards, inviting her to dinner, and coming back to see her, too—in their old home.

Later, from others, she learned that it had been the Ryersons' "old home" for about two years. Jeff was a dealer in real estate and had lived in many houses.

This one he had acquired dirt cheap from the sole heir of its former owner—a nephew, who seemed unconcerned that his poor old aunt had died there. No one knew much about the old woman. She had told people she wanted to be alone. Her mind had wandered vaguely. She was "queer," they said.

"Cracked," explained the cautious young man, obviously relieved to have Jeff Ryerson take charge. Some of the neighbors were so shocked that they said they were glad of it, later, when they read that he had been killed in an accident.

Still, they hated to see Jeff getting the best of a deal. It worried them to have the widow take such a fancy to the house. And, when she arrived with her three children, after selling her cumbersome mountain ranch, everyone in town had started taking care of her. She was that kind of woman. Not helpless, but friendly and appreciative. Chubby brown eyes glowing with health and good humor; a sweet, trusting smile.

"I want to put the children in school," she announced, "and go to church, and join the Women's Club." Judge Harley, an old friend of her family and the town's leading legal authority, gave her business advice. She could pay a little down on a home, and turn over the ranch payments as they came.

The cottage was a neat white stucco—hardwood floors, tiled sink and bath. Not the latest, of course, but it looked like heaven. Mrs. Mason said, after the rambling old pine shack she'd left.

Judge Harley tried to warn her. "Jeff's a great hand," he said, "to spruce up the looks of a place and leave the dirty work for someone else."

But she didn't hold anything against the Ryersons when the neighbors, helping her move in, began noticing things out of order. A broken shade. A missing light fixture. A cracked window pane that hadn't shown while Mrs. Ryerson's curtains were up. And a workman getting a drink of water at the sink, felt the floor give under his feet.

"Looky here, Miss Mason!" he exclaimed. "It's likely a patch of dry rot. Water been seeping in under the linoleum, I'll bet."

She should have noticed that, he said, for the spot had been covered long before with a square of a different design.

But the little widow had laughed. "It's a good thing I'm not a heavy-weight!" And, patting the oldest boy on the shoulder, "Bob and I are handy with tools. We'll fix that up, one of these days."

She'd have been surprised to know that the spot of dry rot was the Ryersons' real reason for selling; their sense of guilt the reason for their subsequent coolness. Jeff had torn out other spots of it in the cottage, and before he was through it had cost him three hundred dollars.

With the late afternoon shadows making a leafy pattern against the Ryersons' imposing residence, it looked less forbidding as little Mrs. Mason lifted the knocker. Jeff himself opened the door while his wife stood, hesitating, behind her. Uncertainly, they both invited her in.

Mrs. Mason came straight to the point. "I thought I'd feel better about this," she said. "If I came and told you myself. You remember that weak place in the floor, right by the kitchen sink?"

They remembered. Jeff cleared his throat to speak, but he wasn't given a chance.

"Bob and I found some oak flooring in the garage, and we thought we'd use some of it there," she went on. "At first I wouldn't let the boys touch that lumber because I figured it belonged to you, Mr. Ryerson, and you might come back for it some time."

"Oh, no, no," Jeff's tone was magnanimous. "Anything you find on the place belongs to you, of course, Mrs. Mason."

"That's what Judge Harley said, too. He said 'Finders, keepers' in a case like this. It's a relief that you think as he does. You're sure you do?"

"Certainly," said Jeff. "But why?" "Because," smiled the widow, "Bob and I ripped up that linoleum, we found two hose boards underneath. We could lift them right out, neat. We could lift them right out, had been there for years; it was full of rust. But the money inside was all right."

"Money?" Jeff's voice was a whispered croak.

Mrs. Ryerson was stiffly alert. "Yes," said the little widow. "We found two hose boards underneath. We could lift them right out, neat. We could lift them right out, had been there for years; it was full of rust. But the money inside was all right."

"Money?" Jeff's voice was a whispered croak.

Versatility Of Glass

Can Be Substituted In Many Ways For Scarce Materials

The necessity of finding substitutes for scarce materials has led to so many new developments in the use of glass that this offspring of sand hardly knows itself now.

Glass foam is pinch-hitting for cork as an insulator, and may prove to be superior to cork in life preservers.

Glass sutures are used instead of silk for some surgical work.

Glass can be sawed and milled like lumber in being developed for use in post war homes—New York Herald Tribune.

SMILE AWHILE

Teacher: "What makes you so late this morning?"

Pupil: "You see, sir, there are eight in our family."

Teacher: "Well?"

Pupil: "And the alarm was set for seven."

"I understand married men make the best commercial travellers."

"That's right. Probably because they're used to taking orders."

Teacher was giving a lesson on the idiosyncrasies of March.

"What is it," she asked, "that comes in like a lion and goes out like a lamb?"

And little Julia in the back row replied: "Father."

Does the foreman know that the trench has fallen in?" asked the contractor.

"Well, sir," replied the workman, "we're digging him out to tell him."

Friend: "What kind of a time did you have in the police court this morning?"

Motorist: "Fine."

"I'll teach that boy to tell lies. I wouldn't do it now, dear; wait and let him hear the one you tell when you come in late tonight."

Mandy: Is you de judge of reprobrates?

Judge: Well, I am the probate judge, if that is what you mean.

Mandy: Yassuh, das it. Well, Mistah Judge, mah husband has done died detested and left me wif sechen little infidels and ah wants to be appointed as de executioner.

"By golly, old boy, I couldn't believe it when I heard you were in the hospital. Why, last night, I saw you dancing with a pretty blonde."

"Yes, so did my wife."

"Mr. Henpeck, what do you think of a man who marries for money?"

"I think he earns every penny he gets."

FLAX IN BRITAIN

The area under flax in Britain has been increased from a few hundred acres in 1939 to over 50,000 acres in 1943. Northern Ireland has also made a remarkable increase in acreage from about 20,000 to 80,000. From this effort have come large quantities of high grade wing fabric for aircraft factories.

Intelligent Animals

Deer Can Be Added To Those That Really Think

It is sometimes questioned whether animals do think, and it is contended that they merely copy what they have seen a human being do. The horse is said to be the most intelligent of animals, with the elephant and the dog coming next. Of all the performing animals, the seal and the chimpanzee come nearest to an unqualified degree of intelligent tricks.

But who would suspect the deer of being a highly intelligent animal that really studies and solves its problems? Gordon J. Levesque, a student of the New York Ranger School, recently put deer to test with remarkable results.

In his study on the protection of growing crops from the depredations of deer, Mr. Levesque reports how a buck dealt with an electrified barbed wire fence. The animal first sniffed the wire, then bounded back from the electric shock. But it came right back, sniffed at the wire without touching it, then dropped to the ground and crawled sideways under the bottom strand which provided 20-inch clearance. In another test a deer browsing on leaves tripped a trigger which squirted a weak solution of ammonia into its eyes. The net day the same animal crept up under the leaves and branches until the trigger was sprung and then, after seeing that no more water came out, straightened up and ate the browse.

Circus elephants are remarkably clever, and men who have handled working elephants in India would give a high place to the big pachyderm. An Englishman who was in charge of a group of elephants which were stacking heavy logs, reports that he once saw an elephant that could not deposit its log high up on the pile. The animal surveyed the situation for a few moments and, after giving vent to its dissatisfaction by loud grumbling, it laid the log down on the ground, stood back and walked around the pile wondering. All of a sudden it gave a shrill cry as if saying to itself, "I've got it," and pushing some logs further to one side with its head, it picked up the log it had laid down and pushed it into place.

Even the dog that brings its thorn to be thrown is a thinker—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

Sugar For Canning

Prices Board Announces Spare "F" Coupons Become Valid July 1

The Prices Board has announced that sugar for 1944 home canning will be made available through 10 spare "F" coupons in ration book 3 now being used by consumers.

The board said consumers will thus be provided with a standard allotment of 10 pounds of sugar per person, for home canning purposes, but households wishing to do more canning will be able to supplement this amount by using their preserves coupons for the purchase of sugar.

The special sugar coupons will be exchangeable for preserves coupons on application to local ration boards at the rate of one "F" coupon for one preserves coupon.

The first of the canning sugar coupons will become valid July 1.

The "F" coupons from one to 10 will be valid for the purchase of one pound of sugar. If all the 1944 preserves coupons also are used to obtain canning sugar the total obtained will be 23 pounds for one person.

Better Than Words

Actions Do More To Weld Nations Into Lasting Harmony

Uncounted millions of words have been written and spoken with the object of welding the English-speaking nations by friendship and understanding into a degree of harmony that can stand the disturbing factors of peace as it does those of war. Words in such a cause are fine, but we think that far more effective is such a little story as came from the Mediterranean the other day.

A ship carrying United States soldiers, said a Cairo dispatch, was attacked twice by enemy aircraft, and apparently was in great peril. But fighters of the Royal Air Force each time came to the rescue, drove off the Germans and saved the troopship. The soldiers, moved by their escape, chipped in $4,000 as an expression of their gratitude, the money to go to any dependents of any R.A.F. casualties resulting from the two actions.

Some time ago there was a story of United States soldiers at a camp in Britain collecting a large sum of money among themselves to assure hospital treatment for a little crippled English boy they had come to know in the neighborhood.

Incidents such as these are far more powerful than the most eloquent words to bring these countries into the relationship of trust, confidence and mutual respect which all of us so much want to see. In so intangible a sphere deeds do literally speak louder than words.—Ottawa Journal.

Prime Minister's Deputy

Clement Attlee Has Taken Churchill's Place Very Many Times

Someone observed recently that no Minister can ever have served a more thorough apprenticeship to the Premiership than Mr. Attlee. During 22 of the 52 weeks of last year—more than a third—Clement Attlee actively deputized for the Prime Minister, and he wound up his onerous duty by broadcasting a New Year message for Mr. Churchill. Though it is rather the fashion to underestimate Mr. Attlee and to regard him as like Telephus, "centred in the sphere of common duties," there can be no doubting either his capability or his devoted industry, says a writer to the Ottawa Journal. He is at his desk before daylight and sticks there busily engaged most of the time, until long after dark. No member of the present Cabinet, even the Prime Minister included, works harder or makes less fuss about it. His personality is not impressive. He is utterly devoid of any theatricalism. His platform style is competently effective without being inspiring. But he fills the bill, knows his job, and is by no means lacking in humor. He celebrated his 61st birthday just recently, and it is not forgotten that he spent four of those anniversaries in last-war khaki with the gunners.

A Public Menace

Pilots Who Stunt Are Dangerous To Themselves And Others

Captain F. S. Wilkins, chief inspector of accidents for the R.C.A.F., has asked the public to report pilots who stunt or fly low over populated places. To him, the jay-flier, like the jay-walker or the irresponsible motorist, is a public menace.

Those who have watched student pilots perform breath-taking stunts over the city will agree with him. Montreal has been fairly free of this sort of thing lately, but every one in a while a flier—perhaps flying over his own home or to impress a girl friend—swoops over the house-tops in a breath-taking feat of derring-do. We admire his courage and make due allowances for high spirits, but we should ask him to reserve his courage and high spirits for battle. His girl friend will appreciate him much more if he comes home all in one piece.—Montreal Star.

LEAD IN AIRCRAFT

It should be noted that the new propellerless rocket plane, of which so much is expected, was primarily the invention of a British officer, Group Captain Frank Whittle, R.A.F. The British have consistently led in aircraft design, which is one great reason why the R.A.F. is where it is today.

ODD BITS

ABOUT OUR ARMED FORCES

Khaki rayon stockings for "walking-out" are being issued members of the Canadian Women's Army Corps, it has been announced at National Defence Headquarters.

Fourteen of the nineteen moving pictures acclaimed the best of 1943 have been made available for showing to troops of the Canadian Army. The five others are unavailable in sizes used by Army projectors.

More than 10,000 men, including 350 officers, have been discharged from the Canadian Army since September for reasons of health, age, or as being of greater value to the country as civilians.

Personnel discharged from the forces after November 1, 1943, are entitled to a clothing allowance of $65 as part of their discharge grant.

Canadian Army artists will have an opportunity to win material prizes and have their work displayed nationally in the annual Canadian Army Art Competition slated for Ottawa in February.

Men and women in the Armed Forces received 30,400 Christmas parcels known as "Handshakes" as the result of a drive by the United Labor Christmas Cheer Fund for the United States.

Canadian Women's Army Corps personnel are on duty at the Anti-Gas Repair Depot at Aurora, Ont., where they repair and check anti-gas equipment to see that it is in perfect working order. Their delicate and careful work helps to save the lives of Canadian soldiers.
